Town Manager Bill To Be Admitted During Current Legislative Session

The Town Manager bill will be admitted to the current legislative session.

Rep. Frank S. Giles Jr. told the TOWNSMAN late Tuesday afternoon that he has received personal assurances from House Speaker Michael Skerry that favorable action will be taken on the measure when the Rules committee meets.

The date of the meeting, however, has not yet been set. Rep. Giles said Tuesday that he has received no notice of a meeting for this week - but that it is possible one may be called.

Procedure
Legislative procedure dictates that the bill, once released from the Rules committee and admitted for consideration, will go to the committee on towns. A public hearing will be called during the current session, prior to any action on the bill. At that time, opponents and proponents may appear to argue their beliefs. The committee presumably will report (Continued on Page 11)

Chapter Of Sorority Met Here Recently

The program "Sculpturing and Painting" was presented by Mrs. Ruth Fowler.

At the business meeting, announcement was made of the appointment of Mrs. Jean Robertson to the program committee and Althea Drew to publicity. Mrs. Elizabeth Ainscow gave a resume of her trip to Boston for the Founders Day dinner. She was accompanied by President MaryLee Prochazka. A blanket invitation to all members to visit Mrs. John Kimball, a member of the Boston chapter and marine librarian on "T" Wharf, was issued.

Members of the chapter donated a crib and carriage to be given to one of the chapter's "adopted" families for their small baby.

WILL REVIEW EVERY BUILDING PERMIT

The board of public works will review building permits after Engineer Ralph Preble has recommended suitable action on them.

Discussed Monday night at the regular board meeting was the time problem of debating all permits requested by builders. It was decided that Preble should make a recommendation based on the water pressure in the section and the board will vote on each permit after hearing that recommendation.

It was pointed out that too little water pressure would be reason enough to disapprove the permit.

James Otis, Patriot, Killed By Lightning In Osgood House

By Kay Noyes

Andover has many proud old houses that have withstood the elements for almost three centuries and whose background is deeply impregnated with the founding of the nation, but few have as long or as startling a history as has the Osgood House on Osgood st.

This large wooden frame house was built around 1699, for Hannah and Stephen Osgood at the time of their marriage. It was originally four large rooms built in the fashion of the day around a huge chimney from which each room derived its heat. The ell in back was added at a later date, possibly by the original occupant's son, Isaac, who after his colorful career as a captain in the French-Indian War, returned to his birthplace to retire to the leisurely role of country gentleman. It is said that he always wore a heavily-powdered white wig to emphasize his position in the "simple farming community". In later years, Jacob Osgood, Isaac's fourth son, a wealthy and highly-respected farmer, inherited the property and made it his home.

Otis Killed There

It was also the early home of the Rev. David Osgood, who volunteered as chaplain at the Battle of Bunker Hill. It was during his occupancy of the house that James Otis, the famous Massachusetts-born patriot, visited here and met his startling death.

As a life-long friend of the Osgood family, James Otis had visited the lovely country place many times and in 1769, he returned to the home of his friend to recuperate from a mental illness brought about from injuries he received when he was severely attacked by a customs collector who opposed his public statements against the British revenue measures.

One Lightning Flash

Otis, one of the ablest pleaders of the cause of freedom for the colonists, had often expressed a wish that his death might be as swift as if by a stroke of lightning. On May 23, 1783, the great leader's unusual wish came true, when in the midst of telling a story to the family, a great dark cloud suddenly appeared followed by a shattering explosion which seemed to rock the earth and simultaneously the distinguished patriot fell without a struggle into the arms of Mr. Osgood. Not a mark of any kind could be found on the victim nor did harm come to any one of the eight members of the household who were present in the room when the incident occurred.

The storm itself was of little consequence and the only bolt of lightning to issue from it was the flash that mercifully put the brilliant man's disturbed mind once more at ease.

Restore Natural Beauty

Unfortunately, the doorway in which James Otis stood at the time of his death was destroyed in the early 1920's, by a fire that got its start when a spark from the massive chimney ignited a beam and destroyed the lovely and historic doorway. Other than the loss of the doorway, the exterior remains much the same as it was several hundred years ago. The interior shows much of the early construction and interesting paneling and the present owners of the Osgood House, Mr. and Mrs. John Forbes, have done much towards restoring the lovely old farm house to its natural beauty.

Observe Memorial Day

Memorial Day.

Just what, in this fast-moving age, does the day mean to us?

We recall last year, when it was necessary to publicly rebuke even the veterans themselves for not turning out to do public homage to departed comrades. That's to say nothing of the stay-at-home citizen who doesn't bother to come out to any of the several memorial services.

We hope that this Memorial Day will bring something of a change — that veterans and non-veterans alike will take the time to publicly pay their respects to veterans of all wars who have died for their country.

Let us all support the sincere efforts of the Memorial Day committee.

Let us all take a few minutes off from the rushing current events to remember dear ones who have served their country well.

Male Choir

Our congratulations to the Andover Male Choir for winning the coveted General Electric trophy last Saturday. The choir was a few points ahead of all others in the competition — thus receiving the perpetual trophy for the first time since it was presented to the New England Federation of Glee Clubs.

It's good to know that, despite the fast pace today, there are still men willing to spend some of their time singing and helping to make life a little more pleasant for all of us thereby.

Explains How "Buddy Poppy" Money Spent

Senior Vice-Commander Thompson of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 2128 said today that he had many requests for information as to how the V.F.W. spends money collected in the annual sale of Buddy Poppies in this community. The sale will be May 25 and 26.

"First, and most important," he said, "is the fact that of every dime collected five cents stays right in the local community. We here on the community level know the needs and desires of those veterans who must have assistance."

"Two and one-half cents of the original dime goes to our own state and National V.F.W. rehabilitation service," Mr. Thompson went on. "In a way that is like keeping the money here in the community. The V.F.W. last year processed 150,000 successful claims that netted a return of $139,000,000 to veterans."

"The next item is probably the most heart-warming," Mr. Thompson continued. "I speak of our V.F.W. National Home for widows and orphans at Eaton Rapids, Michigan. Here is a home for the children and widows of our departed comrades and those who are not able to care for their own families."

"That leaves just one and one-half cents and this goes to the disabled veterans who made the poppies and for other necessary expenses in the campaign."

Manager Debate

Other developments in the Manager debate during the past ten days include endorsement by the League of Women Voters of the plan. A majority of the members voted to support the plan at a meeting last week.

The school committee, on the other hand, continued its opposition by sending a letter to this district's three representatives and Senator Adams again noting the members' opposition. The letter, authorized at the meeting May 17 on motion of Mrs. Reta Buchanan and seconded by member Frederick Allis Jr., read:

"On May 17 the Andover school committee passed the following resolution: The Andover school committee wishes to be unanimously recorded as opposed to the town manager plan of government as it pertains to its effect upon the public school system.

"In the opinion of the school committee, the repair and maintenance of the school buildings, the purchasing of supplies and equipment and the control of the custodians are more properly the responsibility of the school committee, to be carried out by the superintendent of schools.

"The school committee believes that the disadvantages to the school system under the proposed charter greatly outweigh any advantages which the change might bring.

"We respectfully request your consideration of the foregoing resolution while the legislation for a town management form of government for Andover is being studied". All members of the committee signed the letter.

Stillman Disagrees

Town Manager committee Chairman Howell Stillman expressed his amazement at the letter the following day. He termed the board's action "quite inappropriate" and said the board appeared to be trying to interpose itself between the voters and their elected representatives.

The size of the income is not the primary factor in this problem. One depositor who never made more than two hundred dollars a month left, at a ripe old age, an estate of over twenty thousand dollars.

MISS BETSY CHASE
Shawsheen School Chapel

The Shawsheen school held its regular chapel program last Friday morning with the fifth grade students performing. Mrs. Fingleton, fifth grade teacher, arranged the material for the morning performance. The program opened with the entire assembly joined in the singing of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," after which Betsy Chase, as announcer, introduced Richard Busby who recited the poem "We Thank Thee", which was followed by the "Lord's Prayer". The audience then enjoyed a piano piece entitled "Swing Along" by Cynthia Burleigh, followed by Marilyn Miller with a poem telling of a bird house for rent for merely a song. Carol Dunlop, James Romano, Judith Groleau, Karen Ingenthron, David Robertson and Judith Leadbitter harmonized in "Oh Dear, What Can The Matter Be".

A violin duet by David Wilson and Kenneth Mailloux, entitled "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes", was the next musical number on the program and was followed by a piece entitled "Memorial Day", recited by Dorrene Schmidlin. "Autumn Leaves", a piano solo by Irene Walsh, was followed by David Noyes, who recited "What Do We Plant". The fifth grade chorus then brought the program to a close with a medley of songs of which "Robin Hood" was sung with an unusual amount of gusto. The songs were followed by the "Salute to the Flag" and the entire audience joining in the singing of "America".

Golf Ball

Saturday evening the women members of the Andover County club held a very successful golf ball for members and their guests. The affair, which is the first of its kind attempted by the club, started with a cocktail party from 6:30 to 7:30 after which dinner was served followed by general dancing. The club was attractively decorated with multi-colored balloons representing various makes of golf balls and at each table was a centerpiece representing a green, whose flag read the 19 hole. The evening proved to be such a success that the ball will be an annual affair! Mrs. John O'Shea was chairman of the following committee, which worked so hard to make the evening a success: Mrs. Benjamin Bierstein, Mrs. Alan Dunlop, Mrs. Walter Tobey, Mrs. Joseph Duffy Jr., Mrs. Harold Houston, Mrs. Granville Cutler, Mrs. Robert Robichaud, Mrs. John Tansy Jr., Mrs. James Walsh, Mrs. Abraham Ash, Mrs. Samuel Furnari, Mrs. John Davis and Mrs. John Bolten.

Wm. Goodman, Harvard Prof., New Consultant

William I. Goodman of Newton Center is the Planning Board's choice as the new master plan consultant.

He was scheduled to meet with the board last night to talk over a contract and outline his ideas on the plan.

Mr. Goodman is assistant professor of regional planning at Harvard university and has worked with a number of Massachusetts and New Hampshire communities during the past several years. He presently serves the town of Wilmington, a factor considered desirable by the Planning board.

He told the board in a recent letter that some of the apparent pressing problems of the town "appear to be, (1) to channel anticipated growth in an orderly manner to avoid undue hardship to Andover; (2) to organize the use of land in the vicinity of New Route 28; (3) to study factors arising from Andover's position in the metropolitan area of the lower Merrimack River; (4) to provide for uses with special requirements, such as agriculture and educational institutions".

He stressed, however, that the list was not complete and would not be until after consultation with the board.

RAYTHEON PICKS UP SHAWSHEEN OPTION

Boston Ordnance district and Kenneth A. DeLoria, civilian executive assistant, together with officials of the Defense department in Washington and of Army Ordnance in Washington and Redstone Arsenal in Alabama for "their untiring efforts in working out the many details that permitted Raytheon to exercise the option".

Appeals Board

The way was cleared locally for Raytheon's move, when the Appeals board last week gave quick and definite approval to a request for permission to operate there. The hearing lasted only a few minutes, with no one in opposition. A written opinion, confirming its verbal announcement, was filed with the town clerk this week.

20,000 Employed

Raytheon, in addition to its prospective employment at Shawsheen, already employs some 20,000 persons in its Massachusetts plants. They come from more than 150 cities and towns in the state. President Adams said the move into Shawsheen should make it possible for "large numbers of skilled and semi-skilled workers in the Andover - Lawrence - Methuen area to join the rapidly expanding electronics industry".

Fun For All At Saturday's Fair

Chairmen of the various enterprises include Mrs. James B. Trost, pony rides; Mrs. Higus Asoian, balloons; Mrs. Richard Wrigley, grabs; Mrs. John Mooney and Mrs. Roy A. Russell, snack bar; Miss Agnes Deyermund, punch bowl; Mrs. David Anderson, bakery table; Miss Elizabeth H. Hilton, candy; Mrs. Eric Turner, domestic table; Mrs. Leslie D. Westfall, parcel post table; Mrs. Leo J. Shiebler, white elephant table; Miss Doris Hilton, treasurer; Mrs. Sidney Lamb and Mrs. John H. Fenton, general co-chairmen.

Miss Thompson Is Miss Boston University '56

Miss Gladys Thomson, 17 Stevens st., a former TOWNSMAN correspondent, was chosen Miss Boston University of 1956 at a beauty contest held prior to the senior prom. She was one of seven finalists.

Miss Thomson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Thomson, is a sophomore at the university. She had been named a Terrier Titlist or Miss B. U. Personality of the Week by the University News in its bi-weekly feature which qualified her to compete for the coveted annual honor. Judges selected seven girls from among the Terrier Titlists and they were judged by President Harold Case, Chancellor Daniel L. Marsh and Emil Hartly, head of the Alumni Association. As a result of her triumph, she will be one of the finalists in the Miss Massachusetts beauty contest.
